Poverty, climate change, gender equity, human trafficking, refugee and humanitarian emergencies, public health crises...

How do we tackle the world’s most pressing issues?

In this course, we discuss the role of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) working in the most desperate circumstances to alleviate suffering and solve problems. Students will choose an issue area then learn the best practices in deploying resources to actual NGOs working in that area.

Together, we will go through the challenging and exciting process of making a significant grant to achieve a beneficial impact in our global community!
